Customer Reviews

on time and as described

The map is outstanding but it took a long time to arrive!

I used this ridiculously oversized map to look lost, and eventually a Japanese person would come to help me out. The only thing of real use was the subway map which isn't as easy to fold out. If you go to the Major stations they also have sheets that you could have that have all the rail lines of Tokyo that are more likely up to date. There's not much practical use for this as a casual traveler, but if you want to look lost and get help, this is perfect. I joked about this with my friend, and no lie, within 2 seconds someone came up to me and guided us personally to our destination. So there is some use to this as it is a glaring arrow that points to us saying we're lost. But getting lost in Tokyo is the best, cause I've met and made so many friends that way.

Not as English-friendly as I hoped.

Used to make a gift. Overpriced for what I got.
