Jean De Carpentin's Book Of Hours: The Genius Of The Master Of The Dresden Prayer Book (Sam Fogg)

Synopsis

In the 1470s, one of the most innovative artists working in Bruges illuminated a Book of Hours for Jean Carpentin, lord of Gravile and prominent citizen of Normandy. Known as the Master of the Dresden Prayer Book after one of his other masterpieces, this artist and members of his workshop enriched the pages of Carpentin's manuscript with miniatures, historiated initials and boldly colored borders in which human figures, monsters and monkeys are framed by twisting branches of acanthus.

Customer Reviews

This was a very pleasant surprise to receive. It has (as much as possible) the Carpentin Hours, all in pristine colour and clarity as well as a wealth of examples from other Books of Hours, also in colour with Brush strokes that can be made out on individual pages. The material is well discussed. The cost is good for this book.
