In this guide you will find our Top 20 to the must see sights on a trip to Munich. Munich is well known for its fantastic Oktoberfest, celebrating German specialty foods and local beers, which is held every September, but there is a lot more to this lovely city. From the charming Bavarian architecture of the beer halls to the world-class museums and the superb football team, FC Bayern Munich, you will find a lot to keep yourself busy no matter where your interests lie. Take a stroll through the English Gardens, which are actually bigger than Central Park in New York. If you are a surfer, it is even possible to surf the river here. If you love shopping, there is a huge range of different shops from large department stores, to smaller specialist shops. If beer is more your thing, how about a visit to the Beer and Oktoberfest museum followed by a relaxing afternoon of beer tasting in Munich's famous Hofbräuhaus, which was founded in 1589. A visit to Munich isn't complete without a trip to the Neues Rathaus at Marienplatz to hear and see the popular Glockenspiel show. After thoroughly exploring the many different streets and attractions, enjoy a break at one of the many café terraces for a cup of coffee and some German sausages.
