Customer Reviews

I really love nat geo's trail maps, this things can hold up really well. I had a stack of them out on this last trip through the southwest. Its not mine if I haven't spilled coffee on it yet apparently well knocked a cup over right on the maps at first I freaked out but after a quick trying and leaving in the sun the maps weren't even phased. As for the map itself, I carry them on all my hikes and haven't been disappointed when i have to use them on the trails. Another thing I use them for is planning my photography shots, it gives me a bigger picture of everything so I know what the terrain looks like, what direction each "viewpoint" is before I ever get to the parks Reliable, weatherproof, accurate map for the central core of the park. Easy to carry and holds up to repeated use. A sidebar indicating basic geologic cross-sections as in other guides/maps would be very useful as a quick reference while going up and down through the layers.

Easy to read topo map with all the trails and campsites marked. Must have for planning a backcountry trip. Buy a guidebook along with it.

Beautiful map, and useful too.

everything we wanted to know!

Just what I wanted for an up coming trip

Handy to have.

As described, this map is waterproof and tear resistant. Love maps
