Synopsis

"As human beings, we all want to be happy and free from misery... we have learned that the key to happiness is inner peace. The greatest obstacles to inner peace are disturbing emotions such as anger, attachment, fear, and suspicion, while love and compassion and a sense of universal responsibility are the sources of peace and happiness." -Dalai Lama

"In my 35 years in business, I have always trusted my emotions. I have always believed that by touching emotion you get the best people to work with you, the best clients to inspire you, the best partners and most devoted customers." -Kevin Roberts

"When awareness is brought to an emotion, power is brought to your life." -Tara Meyer Robson

Very interesting and informative. Understanding emotional intelligence is really important. I feel like I finally read the book that people have been talking about for years and think we should all read it. We pay dearly when we push aside our emotional realities under the guise of it being "touchy feely" instead of indicators of what thoughts we are attached to that are creating our reality.

With all the focus and media attention on emotional intelligence it is important to learn the facts about this theory. With its focus on the people side of management and leadership, EI skills are in high demand in many workplaces. Very good article and has cleared some of the doubts related to EI.
